

JTI European Scholarships for Journalists

Edition of 2013-2014

Application form

JTI European Scholarships for Journalists

JTI European Scholarships for Journalists are part of JTI's programme, launched in 2000 with the purpose of supporting development and specialization of the Romanian press, by promoting a series of excellent journalistic standards and practices and by organizing meetings with officials of the European Union. JTI's scholarships program for journalists reached its 13th edition and its 6th in Europe.

Beneficiaries of 2013–2014's edition will be young journalists with experience in written press, radio or TV. We are waiting for applicants from the Republic of Moldavia.

Selection of JTI scholars will be made based on their reputation, professional experience, an interview with the organizers, as well as based on three written materials attached to this form. The applicants must have strong Romanian and English language skills to succeed.

The schedule for 2013–2014's edition of the program consists in:

Three days of training in Romania (nearby Brașov) with specialized trainers and lecturers, university teachers, experts and economy journalists. Domains of expertise: communication, journalism, general and communitarian economy, EU legislation, EU regulations and institutions, dissemination of information in the media.

A one week study visit to EU institutions and meetings with EU officials.

A three week internship at one of the European press agencies.*

^{*}After each stage a selection will be made to choose who will continue to the next.
